

The Department of Applied Linguistics and ESL at Georgia State University (downtown Atlanta campus) invites applications for a full-time, renewable, non-tenure-track Applied Linguistics Lecturer to start fall semester 2023. Responsibilities include teaching eight undergraduate/graduate applied linguistics courses per academic year, four in fall and four in spring, with an option to teach in summer for additional compensation.

Essential qualifications:

- Ability to teach TESOL methods, as well as other Applied Linguistics courses in the undergraduate and graduate Applied Linguistics programs
- Interest in teaching and mentoring students of diverse backgrounds
- A Ph.D. or evidence that a Ph.D. will be awarded by August 2023

Preferred qualifications:

- Previous experience with teaching undergraduate and graduate courses in Applied Linguistics/TESOL, including core areas of linguistics
- Previous experience with teaching second/foreign languages

Applicants should submit the following material:

- Letter of application that details how the qualifications are met
- Curriculum vitae
- Statement of teaching philosophy with the information on how they will facilitate a diverse and inclusive learning environment both in and outside the classroom
- Evidence of teaching effectiveness (sample syllabi, student evaluation, etc.)
- A list of three professional references (name, title, email address, and telephone number) who are willing to provide letters of reference

The department encourages applicants with a passion for teaching and mentoring students. Please submit all materials electronically to ykim39@gsu.edu. All documents should be combined into a single PDF file (LASTNAME,FIRSTNAME.pdf) and submitted as an email attachment. The review of applications will begin on May 15, 2023. Application reviews will continue until the position is filled.

Located in downtown Atlanta and designated as a minority-serving institution, Georgia State University has one of the most diverse student bodies in the nation and is nationally recognized for its record in student success regardless of race, ethnicity, and income level. Lecturers at Georgia State University are full-time non-tenure track faculty with both teaching and service responsibilities who directly contribute to this mission of educating a highly diverse student body. Lecturers have the opportunity for promotion to Senior Lecturer and Principal Senior Lecturer. Our lecturers are full members of the department's intellectual community and leadership team. The College of Arts & Sciences supports professional success for all faculty through mentoring programs and representation of faculty from all ranks in college-level program development. Georgia State is an institutional member of the National Center for Faculty Development & Diversity. Women and minorities are especially encouraged to apply.

The Department of Applied Linguistics and ESL is committed to enhancing its research and instructional excellence by increasing the diversity of its faculty. Our MA in Applied Linguistics program was recently honored by the U.S. Department of State as being a top producer of English Language Fellows.
